

Seggiolina Pop — design Enzo Mari, 2004

Pop, a children's chair with iconic shapes designed by Enzo Mari, is the first product in the Me Too collection on which production started in 2004.

Made in expanded polypropylene and weighing just 850 grams, it is therefore an extremely lightweight yet at the same time strong product which allows children to carry it on their own around the home and therefore move around independently.

Enzo Mari

Feature of his work, considered to be among the most representative of Italian design, is the constant research and experimentation with new product forms and meanings, often set in contrast with the traditional norms of industrial design.

His unique position as an artist-cum-designer is documented in the many publications dedicated to his work and in his participation in major institutions.
