

A base of roots sprout from the granite base into branching arms to cradle the glass top of the Isadora table. The natural iron base rests atop a round black granite footing.